

“THINKABOUTIT” THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Wednesday; April 23, 2008

If you have ever watched an takeoff of an awards show, one common spoof is of the big star saying, “I’d like to thank all the ‘little people’ who made my popularity possible.”. While this is often done tongue-in-cheek, there is a reality in what they are saying. Without the make-up artist, boom guy, cameraman and gaffer (whatever that is), there would be no stars.

Today is something similar in the work-world. Today is Administrative Professionals Day. Today is the day we honor all those people who do so much; but, get so little credit. These are the “little people” who have the power to make-or-break a business. These are those “common folks” who have the ability to make us look good or look bad. Come to think of it, they are neither “little” nor “common”.

For all of you administrative professionals – thanks for all you do. You deserve more than we could ever repay, so for today, accept our thanks and appreciation for all you do every day!

Think about it! For the Madison Avenue Church of Christ; this is Charlie Wharton.
