

“THINKABOUTIT” THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Friday; February 29, 2008

Today is a bonus day. Call it leap day, the 366th day or just February 29, today is a special day because it only comes around once every four years. There are a lot of fun events planned for today and we should do something special to enjoy it.

In an interesting twist though, today is a symbolic day. Yes, today is special because it is not routine; yet, that can be said about any day. Each and every day that God gives us is unique in it's own way. No day will be like any day that has gone before nor will it be the same as any that follow. Today is special, today is unique, today is a bonus!

Thousands of years ago, a godly man noted, "This is the day which the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad in it." (Psalm 118:24) In reality today is not special because of the date, it is special because of the Giver. God has blessed us with this day, let's do something really wonderful with it!

Think about it! For the Madison Avenue Church of Christ; this is Charlie Wharton.
