

“THINKABOUTIT” THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Wednesday; March 12, 2008

There is an old saying that notes, “Do what you have always done and you’ll get what you’ve always gotten.” While this maxim is true in many areas one of its surest is in the way we live our lives. The choices we make often produce a certain result. If we live life this way, we can be pretty sure that will happen.

While this principle is true in living our own lives, it is equally as true in the lives of others. In other words, we don’t have to learn the all lessons on our own, we can get an education from the choices others make. This concept brings us back to the a question of role models. After whom do we really want to pattern our lives? Before we walk in someone else’s footsteps we probably out to step back, and from a distance, see where they end up.

What do we want to get out of life? Let’s take a look at the people who have gotten it and start following their path.

Think about it! For the Madison Avenue Church of Christ; this is Charlie Wharton.
