

“THINKABOUTIT” THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Friday; May 9, 2008

In this message (which masquerades as a public service announcement), we urge you not to forget that Sunday is Mother’s Day. If you haven’t bought your cards, flowers or candy, you still have a couple of days to complete your purchases and avoid a year of issues.

This weekend, there will be a lot of accolades to our mothers; however, I would also like to offer a bit of a reminder to all of us. You see, most women will receive some type of memento this weekend; but, those who receive the greatest honor will be those who truly live up to the role of wife and mother. While Mother’s Day is a fairly recent holiday, the impact of women in our lives has been felt since the beginning of time. Thousands of years ago, a wise man contrasted, “An excellent wife is the crown of her husband, but she who shames him is as rottenness in his bones.” (Proverbs 12:4)

Happy Mothers Day! Keep up all the good work you do and accept our praise for who you are.
