

“THINKABOUTIT” THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Friday; November 23, 2007

There are great philosophers – then there is Yogi Berra. Decades ago, when asked what made a good manager, Yogi noted, “ A good ball club.”. In his own way, Yogi acknowledged that people who were successful in baseball management were those who won and those who won, traditionally had good teams.

If we were to search out the answer to the question, “What makes a good person?” it wouldn’t surprise me if the answer didn’t come back, “The good values of the Good Book.”. There can be a lot of keys that go into making good people; but, when it’s all reduced down to it’s simplest form, goodness is found in doing the good things of the perfect law.

This weekend, will we be practicing to be a good person by taking the time to seek out good people studying the Good Book? Our Good God has given us the privilege to worship Him with other believers ... will we do the good thing?

Think about it! For the Madison Avenue Church of Christ; this is Charlie Wharton.
